- the main result of the project is an improved RO-HU cross-border cooperation of institutions in migration management. The cooperation of the 4 institutions will ultimately lead to enhanced administrative capacity in the management of migration. One of the results of the project is creating a common framework for both theoretical and practical training of police workers in border management and public order, related to migration issues. The institutions will intensify their cooperation and will better face the challenges posed by migration due to the 6 training modules that will be jointly delivered. The increased level of intensity of cooperation between the partner institutions will be reflected by an increased number of meetings, activities that are jointly implemented, information and experience that are shared. Also, the partner institutions will act together to better inform the population affected by migration, who lives in the border region and to elaborate the diagnosis on migration
